

Free Wi-Fi with the NEW Hertz Connect device for Gold Plus Rewards members. Join for free.

BOOK DIRECT

T&Cs apply

Hertz

You are here: Home → News → 2018 07 27 → Article 672427

General News of Friday, 27 July 2018

Source: Dannakabu Rabi

'Plant for the planet' initiative opens new chapter in Ghana

As part of the efforts to fight the climate crisis and train students to be climate justice ambassadors in Ghana, the Plant-For-The-Planet Initiative has inaugurated its chapter.

The Plant-For-The-Planet Initiative is a non-governmental organization that seeks to promote climate justice advocacy by engaging students to take action against global challenges of climate crisis, poverty eradication and environmental degradation.

The president of Mohammed Rabi Dannakabu indicated that so far “over 5000 students have been made climate justice ambassadors to enable them pass on their knowledge and also encourage other children to take on social responsibility and shape their future.”

The organization has also planted close to 2500 trees in both the Upper East and Northern Regions of Ghana and was supported by the Billion Tree Campaign by UNEP.

During the official launch of the Ghana chapter, ten executive members were inducted into the office to help promote the mission of the organization.

About Plant-For-The-Planet Initiative

Plant-For-The-Planet Initiative is a leading climate change organization. Founded by Felix Finkbeiner in 2007, this initiative has the official tree counter of the Billion Tree Campaign by UNEP, trains climate justice ambassadors across the world. It currently has a worldwide network of more than 67,000 children as active climate justice ambassadors also plants trees across the world with a target of 1000 billion trees.

Comments:

This article has no comments yet, be the first to comment